

Coach DeAndre Evans (Coach Dre)

At the age of 23, Coach Dre started training student athletes in the Rogers Park area on the north side of Chicago quickly becoming recognized by High School Head Coaches in the area for the results shown by his athletes. During this time, he also started his coaching career in the AAU world of with a program called Team Flight. There Coach Dre learned his style of coaching as well as becoming the program director within a year.

In 2014 Coach Dre got his first High School coaching opportunity at St. Benedict Catholic High School where he would serve as the Sophomore Head Coach as well as Varsity Assistant. The following year he would transition over to coach in CPS at Mather High School to be Lead Varsity Assistant for his High School Coach and mentor from Senn High School, Tony Colston. That year, the varsity won the Co-Conference Championship shared with Schurz High School.

Coach Dre's success at Mather propelled him to first Head Coaching opportunity at a charter school, CMSA. There he would lead the CMSA program to second place in the conference. Due to a transitioning at CMSA, Coach Dre landed the opportunity to become Lead Assistant at the legendary Von Stueben High School under coach Marvin Williams.

Since then, Coach Dre has been able to land another Head Coaching position at Roosevelt High School, as well as start his own AAU program CD Elite. Through CD Elite Coach Dre has develop numerous athletes and showcasing them in high profile tournaments including playing on the PrepHoops Circuit. He has helped athletes get to the college level as well as continues to train college athletes as well.
